And this is one of the fundamental beliefs for which parents are breaking their silence. No one ever mentioned this in the vaccine debate before. We now have thousands of parents speaking out. We don't need to prove vaccines are safe, no longer. The jury is out. It is quite possible that all the fears parents have of vaccines have merit. But the belief that vaccines are dangerous is a big part of the cause of the nearly silent epidemic of untreatable neurological diseases. People don't realize the degree to which this belief has poisoned the planet. The media has a duty to inform people of the real dangers of vaccines. Until they fulfill that duty, they should refrain from reporting these stories. "...However, although the committee found that 'a causal association' between MMR vaccine and autism was not proven,
