Power Translator 11 PRO download Consumers are increasingly turning to the internet to search for products and services online. The internet has become a valuable tool for consumers to search for products and services, for example, by simply performing a keyword search or by browsing through a listing of hyperlinks. It is desirable for businesses, sellers, and other entities to provide information and advertisements to consumers about products and services that are relevant to the consumers. However, consumers may become overwhelmed with the number of advertisements and may not find the advertisements that are of interest. Accordingly, it is desirable to have methods, systems, and computer readable media for automatically providing targeted advertisements to consumers. ST. PETERSBURG — Don't call it a "scrap heap." St. Petersburg's police chief is hoping his city's two industrial lots might attract the occasional "artisan" to start a small business. Police Chief Chuck Harmon said he and other members of the city's business improvement district recently walked over the city-owned lots, in the area of North Fourth and Fourth streets. "These lots were once old brick manufacturing plants," Harmon said. "They have been standing empty for several years." The lots are in the north end of the city, just north of Century Plaza and the Rays ballpark. Last year, while Chief Harmon was still an officer in Ybor City, he got an idea about how to use the abandoned brick buildings. He got the ball rolling on it. "We got those two lots with our business improvement district, and we contacted a woman who worked in one of the buildings in Ybor City," Harmon said. She said it was possible that the Ybor City development department might be willing to lease the buildings to her to rent as apartments. "We talked with Ybor City and they said, 'That would be a good idea,'" Chief Harmon said. "I didn't think Ybor City would have any interest in that." A year later, Chief Harmon has an agreement with the owner of one of the buildings, but they have not been able to do anything about the other building. One building, built in the 1920s, was the home of the City of St
