The population was 661 at the 2010 census. The Town of Lambert was created from the northern part of the Town of Lumberville. The Incorporated Village of Lambert is within the town. It had a post office from 1877 until its closing in October 20, 1979. Lambert is in the southeast part of the town and is near the New York State Thruway. The Wyoming Valley SRT train station is north of the town. History Lambert was originally in the town of Waterford. In 1812, the town of Lumberville and that of Waterford were divided into three towns each: Lambert, Waterford and Lumberville, with Lumberville taking the former village of Waterford and part of the northern part of the old town of Lumberville ba244e880a
